Cone Communications CSR Study, 2017

In addition to the altruistic motivation to help others, companies with successful corporate philanthropy strategies benefit from high employee engagement and retention, more opportunities to attract top talent, and stronger relationships with customers.

Types of Corporate Giving Strategies

Set up a corporate giving program aligned with your mission and workforce.

- Employee Engagement
- Community Impact
- Scholarships

“It was important for us at Qualcomm to build a scholarship program that matched our corporate values; but with limited staff resources and internal bandwidth, we needed help in the process. In addition to handling the time-consuming administrative aspects of the program, San Diego Foundation team worked with us to develop a program that aligns with our corporate values and truly meets the needs of students.”
